

ABSTRACT OF THE DISCLOSURE

A screen for an electrochemical cell is fabricated by providing an interwoven wire mesh, and electroplating nickel onto the mesh, which bonds with the joints to create a screen usable with an electrochemical cell. The mesh can first be rolled to partially bond the wires prior to the electroplating step.

MKE\5425846_3